Teachers Prepared

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2022-23.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. \(\$205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\)\)

What are CIP Codes?

No teachers prepared in academic year 2022-23

If your program has no teachers prepared, check the box above and leave the table below blank (or clear responses already entered).

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (<https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55>).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2022-23. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education–Chemistry" category.

Program Assurances

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

>> Program Assurances

Respond to the following assurances. Teacher preparation programs should be prepared to provide documentation and evidence, when requested, to support the following assurances. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(A\)\(iii\); §206\(b\))

Program Assurances

Note: This section is preloaded from the prior year's IPRC.

1. Program preparation responds to the identified needs of the local educational agencies or States where the program completers are likely to teach, based on past hiring and recruitment trends.

- Yes
 No

2. Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

- Yes
 No

3. Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

- Yes
 No
 Program does not prepare special education teachers

4. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

- Yes
 No

5. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to limited English proficient students.

- Yes
 No

6. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

- Yes
 No

7. Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

- Yes
 No

8. Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

All programs provide teacher candidates with field experiences throughout their programs of study and this culminates with a 16-week clinical experience in the candidate's final semester. The EPP provides resources (i.e., field guides that are unique to each of the preparation strand field experience as well as student teaching handbooks) to support and foster relationships with the districts for clinical placements. The Office of Partnerships and Outreach (OPO) within the School of Education and Counseling (SoEC) uses data from assessments (which include input from clinical educators and students) to determine the needs of our community partners, alignment with our partners' annual goals with specific university coursework and learning outcomes. In order to be responsive to our partner school districts, the OPO annually surveys educators and administrators to learn of their identified needs, and works with them to strategically place candidates in diverse classrooms with experienced and dedicated mentor teachers.

Additionally, an electronic tracking system that stores the details of the candidates' field and clinical experiences is employed to ensure that we meet these assurances. This tracking and monitoring system, the Site Tracker of the EPP (STEPP) is maintained by the OPO to ensure that candidates are afforded diverse clinical placements. The STEPP includes the following information for each candidate: District, school, teacher, grade, type of environment, supervisor, semester and year. It is updated each semester to ensure that accurate accounts of candidate experiences occur. While some partnerships have been in existence for several years, the EPP continually seeks new partnerships with districts that may provide candidates opportunities for additional experiences with diverse students or opportunities for candidates to explore innovative practices and technologies. New partnerships are being sought by the OPO, especially after the data of previous field experiences was loaded into STEPP. It was evident from this data that candidates were not consistently receiving diverse experiences. A specific example included the creation of a partnership with a district to create a teacher residency experience. In this experience, candidates co-teach alongside a mentor educator, participate in institutes and professional development opportunities to further refine and develop their instructional competencies, and complete coursework for their degree. The ability to replicate this model with other districts is currently underway. The OPO continually seeks out partnerships with the goal of ensuring candidates receive diverse experiences in rural, urban, and suburban environments.

Report Progress on Last Year's Goal (2022-23)

1. Did your program prepare teachers in mathematics in 2022-23?

If no, leave remaining questions for 2022-23 blank (or clear responses already entered).

- Yes
 No

2. Describe your goal.

To reach the goal of increasing the enrollment of T2T candidates pursuing the licensure in mathematics by one (1) the following steps will be taken: Ensure the current plan of study for the T2T program is published on the School of Education and Counseling (SoEC) website. Optimize the use of search terms for the T2T program so that it is easily discoverable. Continue to have academic advisors within the SoEC to communicate regularly with other academic advisors within the academic/content departments to ensure that information about the T2T program is being shared with graduates who might not have previously considered education as a career choice. Continue to increase the use of external communications (e.g., advertisement) to target individuals interested in a career change.

3. Did your program meet the goal?

- Yes
 No

4. Description of strategies used to achieve goal, if applicable:

There were no new T2T mathematics students during the 2022-23 academic year.

5. Description of steps to improve performance in meeting goal or lessons learned in meeting goal, if applicable:

The T2T secondary plan of study was revised and submitted in March 2024 for program state review. A final decision will be made by September, 2024. We hired a new mathematics/science professor Fall 2023. Relationships are being built with the mathematics department to improve recruitment of T2T mathematics students.

6. Provide any additional comments, exceptions and explanations below:

Yes
 No

- c. use technology effectively to manage data to improve teaching and learning

Yes
 No

- d. use technology effectively to analyze data to improve teaching and learning

Yes
 No

2. Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

Technology is foundational as both a tool and as an essential component of pedagogical and content knowledge and skills. The standards established by the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE Standards) have been adopted by the Educator Preparation Program (EPP) at Purdue University Northwest. These serve as the framework for the integration of technology skills developed by teacher candidates throughout their program. The standards address the needs of both educators and learners. ISTE Standards for Educators define the requisite skills and pedagogical knowledge for educators to teach, work and learn. They are designed to “deepen...practice, promote collaboration with peers, challenge...to rethink traditional approaches and prepare students to drive their own learning.” (ISTE, 2020). Simultaneously, candidates are expected to apply the ISTE Standards for Students as they develop learning segments, prepare instructional materials and complete assessments to demonstrate student learning. The ISTE Standards for Students describe the “skills and knowledge students need to grow, thrive and contribute in a global, interconnected and constantly changing society.” (ISTE, 2020). The ISTE Standards are embedded in courses across each degree program, and aligned to the core standards and assessments adopted by the EPP, including InTASC, Specialized Professional Assessment (SPA) Standards, and the North Dakota Common Metrics Skills of Teaching Observation Tool (STOT). The ISTE Standards have further been aligned with diversity standards to ensure that teacher candidates receive an education that is mindful of the importance of both traditional and digital equity (Matrix of ISTE Standards by Course). Teacher candidates engage with both the ISTE Standards for Students and the ISTE Standards for Educators during their program of study. However, they are measured by the ISTE Standards for Educators with regard to their coursework. To illustrate this point a bit more, teacher candidates are required to take the “Educational Technology for Teaching and Learning” course which focuses on helping them develop the foundational knowledge and skills to effectively integrate technology into curricula and instruction. In this project-based course, candidates use a variety of technological tools to develop materials highlighting technology's role in professional productivity and the learning process. Candidates discuss how technology can be used to help differentiate instruction to meet the individual needs of learners, and complete an assignment researching adaptive/assistive technologies. As technology is a cross-cutting theme in our programs of study, candidates are required to use technology to collect and analyze data, and to identify and implement research-based practices that will improve students' learning, engagement and outcomes. Additionally, they are required to use the principles of universal design for learning to differentiate instruction through the use of a variety of technology. This is especially important in the new course added to the program of study in "Assistive Technology." In this course, candidates explore the use of technological applications in special education to ensure that learning environments and experiences are inclusive. The use of technology within the classroom (i.e., clinical field placement) provides opportunities for candidates to experiment with pedagogy, democratize the learning space, and better engage learners. In this way, technology facilitates interaction between educators and learners. As part of their field-based experiences, candidates are required to develop and implement lessons that incorporate technology. In this way, candidates bridge theory to practice and build on the content learned in the university classroom through the application in the field-based experience. Field guides for these experiences as well as the university course syllabi specify the technological integrations candidates are to employ within the experience. Further, candidates engage in the edTPA as a means for demonstrating how they are able to analyze data to monitor their impact on learning in the classroom during their final semester in the program (i.e., student teaching). Technology is a critical element of the communication processes adopted by the EPP, including recruitment and retention efforts. Electronic reporting tools such as the SoEC Newsletter, the STAR Report and the databases used to track prospective and incoming candidates allow the EPP to be focused and targeted in the communication to stakeholders. Further, technology is employed by the EPP in its communications with community partners, clinical educators, and candidates. It is an integral aspect of recruiting, selecting, and monitoring candidate academic progress and advancement. The Surveys of Principals and Teachers conducted by the Indiana Department of Education, (CAEP 4) also provide information about the EPP completers' use of technology. For the indicator that the teacher was prepared to "integrate technology as appropriate to advance student learning," the principals' ratings were all "Agree" or "Strongly Agree." The EPP completers responded to the same question and 89% indicated "Agree" or "Strongly Agree." This points to a relative strength in the program completers' self-efficacy for the use of technology.

Teacher Training

1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

The T2T program is an 18 credit hour program of study that leads to eligibility for licensure for individuals who currently hold baccalaureate degrees in one of 17 identified or related disciplines. Currently candidates in Transition to Teach (T2T) at Purdue University Northwest are required to participate in three courses which have been identified as preparing them to meet the challenges of today's classrooms. Specifically, to meet the needs of exceptional and English language learners, all candidates take a course focusing on differentiating curriculum (EDPS 59100) and the course entitled Measuring Educational Achievement (EDPS 53200). These ideas are furthered explored in each candidate's content specific method course, which include a variety of pedagogical strategies to support English Language Learners and students with disabilities (EDCI 52600, EDCI 61300, EDCI 60500, or EDCI 62400). During two courses (EDPS 591 and content-specific methods) and during their Internship in Education (EDPS 69500) experience their final semester, candidates work with mentor teachers and field experience supervisors who help them apply the ideas learning in classes to their work with students in their own classrooms, with a strong focus on creating lessons that meet the needs of all learners. For candidates who are pursuing the graduate degree in special education, they take 24 credits of coursework related to one of two options: Mild Intervention or Intense Intervention. In both of these options, candidates have coursework in which they explore issues of identification, evaluation and Assessment of Exceptional Individuals (EDPS 56300); Social, Legal and Ethical Issues (EDPS 56800); complete a course focusing on collaboration (EDPS 50101); and an Advanced Assistive Technology course (EDPS 57100). In the Mild Intervention option, candidates take 6 credits on intervention strategies and methods (EDPS 57701 and 59100) and complete a student teaching experience in a classroom context supporting learners with mild exceptional needs (high incidence population)(EDPS 56600). For the Intense Intervention option, candidates complete 6 credits of coursework focusing on intervention strategies and methods for working with learners with intense exceptional needs (EDPS 50303 and EDPS 50404)and complete a student teaching experience in a classroom/learning context focusing on learners with intense needs (EDPS 56600).

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

Announced by Purdue University Board of Trustee in 2014, the campuses of Purdue University Calumet (PUC) located in Hammond, Indiana and Purdue North Central (PNC) located in Westville, Indiana were to be unified. The unification process included application and review by the Higher Learning Commission (HLC), and in July, 2016 the two distinct campuses were unified to form Purdue University Northwest (PNW). PNW, the fifth largest public university in Indiana, is a comprehensive, regional university dedicated to serving the professional, cultural, and general educational needs of the citizens of Northwest Indiana. PNW was nationally accredited by CAEP in June 2021. The following programs were submitted to the Indiana Department of Education during Fall 2023 and all received continued state recognition (Elementary, Special Education Elementary, Special Education Early Childhood, Secondary Mathematics, Secondary English, Secondary Social Studies. The Secondary Transition to Teach program was submitted for state review March, 2023 and will receive feedback by September, 2024. The next CAEP accreditation review will take place during the Fall of 2026.
